

Maria Ginzburg and Sean Baldwin Talk to Law360 About the Biggest Securities Decisions of 2019

07/10/19

Maria Ginzburg and Sean Baldwin spoke to Law360 about the largest securities decisions of 2019, both decided in the U.S. Supreme Court. In one case, the justices widened liability for those involved in the spread of false information about investments. In the other, the justices dismissed a claim challenging the appropriate standards for alleging false statements and omissions related to tender offers. This decision was notably just nine words long.
